

French switchboard manufacturer

AI Overview

France hosts several leading switchboard manufacturers, including ITEC Groupe, Groupe TABSYS, and Comeca Group, offering low- and medium-voltage switchboards, distribution boards, and custom electrical solutions. Key Manufacturers ITEC Groupe is a national player in the design, integration, and production of low-voltage switchgear, controlgear assemblies, and electrical panels for industry, infrastructure, and service sectors. They provide tailor-made solutions, with a focus on innovation, technical expertise, and compliance with standards, supported by experienced project managers and production teams across France. Groupe TABSYS specializes in low-voltage switchboard systems, including fixed, disconnectable, and withdrawable drawer configurations up to 7800 A. Their products comply with EN 61439 standards, and they offer project support, on-site installation, and maintenance services throughout France and internationally. Comeca Group operates 10 production units across France, supplying distribution boards that integrate components from major manufacturers such as Schneider, Legrand, ABB, and Siemens. Their solutions include modular and upgradeable panels, tested to IEC 61439 standards, with a focus on safety, compact design, and lifecycle adaptability. Additional Resources For a broader list of switchboard manufacturers and suppliers in France, platforms like Trademo and Europages provide directories with shipment data, trade volumes, and B2B contact information, helping businesses identify potential partners and suppliers. Summary French switchboard manufacturers offer a wide range of products from standard low-voltage panels to fully customized distribution boards. Companies like ITEC Groupe, Groupe TABSYS, and Comeca Group combine technical expertise, compliance with international standards, and on-site support, making them suitable for industrial, commercial, and infrastructure projects across France.
