

Irish Fiber Optic Cable Fittings Manufacturer

AI Overview

Fibretec Solutions, Max. Crescent Infrastructure, Entegro, FibreLink, and PS Networks are leading Irish manufacturers and providers of fiber optic cable fittings and network solutions. Key Manufacturers and Providers

Fibretec Solutions – Based in Limerick, Fibretec designs, manufactures, and installs fiber optic network products, including custom ODF panels, FTTH management equipment, pre-terminated multi-core assemblies, and ruggedized patchcords. They also provide on-site splicing, testing, and repair services, making them a comprehensive solution provider for telecom and data communications networks in Ireland.

Max. Crescent Infrastructure – With over 34 years of experience, this company specializes in structured cabling solutions, including fiber optics for high-density data centers. They emphasize compliance with CPR and industry standards, offering scalable solutions backed by a 25-year warranty.

Entegro – Focused on telecommunications technology, Entegro designs and deploys gigabit networks, including optical fiber technologies such as splicing and testing. They provide infrastructure planning and project management services, supporting both urban and rural fiber deployments.

FibreLink – A provider of high-speed broadband infrastructure, FibreLink specializes in the design, installation, and maintenance of fiber optic and structured cabling systems. They handle FTTH networks and commercial premises upgrades, combining advanced technology with professional project management.

PS Networks – PS Networks offers installation and maintenance of fiber optics, structured cabling, and cable containment systems. They provide pre-terminated solutions, splicing, OTDR testing, and support for both copper and fiber networks, serving telecoms and data network clients across Ireland.
