

New type of corrosion-resistant power cable tray

Overview

An FRP cable tray is a structural support system made of fiberglass reinforced with polyester, vinyl ester, or epoxy resin. This composite material provides high strength, excellent corrosion resistance, and non-conductive properties, making it ideal for electrical and industrial. In the construction and design of electrical systems, anti-corrosive cable trays selection plays a crucial role in ensuring both the durability and safety of the entire system. These trays not only organize and protect cables but also ensure long-term reliability. Below, we delve into their key. tant in a wide range of environments, and easily formable (Appendices II and III). Choosing the right material is crucial for corrosion protection. This white paper compares the High Resistance (HR) and Hot-Dip Galvanising (HDG) solutions and highlights the new High Resistance range, ZnAl. These composite, corrosion-resistant trays are quickly becoming the preferred choice in petrochemical plants, offshore platforms, data centers, and other critical installations.
