

Price of African Galvanized Cable Tray

AI Overview

Galvanized cable trays in Africa typically range from USD 15 to USD 120 per meter, depending on type, thickness, and finish.

Overview of Galvanized Cable

Trays Galvanized cable trays are steel trays coated with zinc to resist corrosion, commonly used in industrial, commercial, and infrastructure projects across Africa .

They are available in pre-galvanized (light-duty) and hot-dip galvanized (medium to heavy-duty) finishes, with hot-dip options offering superior durability in harsh environments . Common types include ladder trays, perforated trays, wire mesh trays, and solid-bottom trays .

Factors Affecting Price

Material Thickness: Thicker steel (0.6mm to 3.0mm) increases cost due to higher material usage .

Tray Type: Ladder trays and perforated trays are generally more expensive than solid-bottom trays because of manufacturing complexity .

Finish: Hot-dip galvanization costs more than pre-galvanized finishes due to enhanced corrosion protection .

Length and Width: Standard lengths are 2.44 meters (8 feet), with widths ranging from 25mm to 600mm; larger trays cost more .

Supplier and Location: Prices vary across African countries due to shipping, import duties, and local manufacturing availability

Estimated Price Range

Light-duty pre-galvanized trays: USD 15–40 per meter

Medium-duty hot-dip galvanized trays: USD 40–80 per meter

Heavy-duty hot-dip galvanized trays: USD 80–120 per meter

Custom sizes, stainless steel options, or specialized perforations may exceed this range .

Conclusion

When budgeting for galvanized cable trays in Africa, consider tray type, material thickness, finish, and supplier location. For accurate pricing, it is recommended to request quotes from local suppliers such as

Advanced Strut, Liteglo, or TDK Tech Store, which provide tailored solutions and delivery across multiple African regions .
