

Price of a three-level power distribution box for a suspended platform

AI Overview

The price of a three-level power distribution box for an electric suspended platform typically ranges from $500 to $1,500 per unit, depending on specifications, brand, and customization options.

Price Overview The cost of a suspended platform power distribution box varies based on several factors, including the number of phases, safety features, brand, and OEM customization. Standard three-level control boxes for platforms like ZLP630 or ZLP800 generally fall within $500–$1,500 per unit for small orders, while bulk or wholesale purchases may reduce the per-unit cost.

Factors Affecting Price

- Brand and Quality: Boxes using components from reputable manufacturers like CHINT or SCHNEIDER tend to be more expensive but offer higher reliability and safety.
- Customization: OEM services, such as custom busbar layouts, cable entry modifications, or logo embossing, can increase the price.
- Safety Features: Inclusion of overload protection, emergency stop, phase loss protection, and limit switch compatibility can affect cost.
- Order Volume: Larger orders or distributor purchases often benefit from wholesale discounts, reducing the per-unit price.

Supplier Guidance Alibaba and Made-in-China list multiple manufacturers offering ZLP series control boxes with customization options and international shipping. IndiaMart provides verified exporters for three-phase suspended platform panel boards, suitable for construction and industrial applications. Hebei Hengxiang specializes in high-quality suspended platform control boxes with reliable components and timely delivery.

Recommendation For an accurate quote, it is best to contact suppliers directly with your platform model, required features, and order quantity. This ensures you receive a price tailored to your specifications and any additional safety or customization requirements.
