

Price of ordinary optical fiber cables for computer rooms

AI Overview

Ordinary indoor optical fiber cables for computer rooms typically cost between $0.09 and $6 per foot, depending on type, fiber count, and construction. Typical Pricing

Single-mode fiber (OS2): $0.10 to $0.50 per foot for standard indoor cables; bulk orders may reduce costs to $0.09 per foot, while higher-count or premium brands can reach $2.80 per meter ($0.85 per foot).

Multimode fiber (OM3/OM4): $0.30 to $1.00 per foot for standard indoor runs; high-performance or pre-terminated cables can cost $1.50 to $6 per foot.

Indoor-rated cables: Riser-rated cables are less expensive than plenum-rated cables designed for air-handling spaces. Armored indoor cables for extra protection range from $0.50 to $5 per foot.

Bulk purchases: Buying in bulk can significantly reduce per-foot costs, especially for standard 12- or 24-strand cables.

Factors Affecting Cost

Fiber Count: Higher strand counts increase price proportionally; for example, a 12-strand cable may cost $0.50 per foot, while a 24-strand cable can reach $1.00 per foot.

Cable Construction: Plenum-rated, armored, or low-smoke zero-halogen (LSZH) cables are more expensive than standard indoor riser-rated cables.

Pre-terminated vs. Bulk: Factory-terminated patch cables or assemblies cost more due to labor and connector quality.

Installation Complexity: While the user asked about cable cost alone, indoor installation may add labor costs if routing through conduits or ceilings is required.

Practical Considerations

For a typical computer room or data center, multimode OM3/OM4 cables are commonly used for short-distance connections (up to 300 meters), offering a balance of performance and cost. Single-mode cables are preferred for longer runs or future-proofing but are slightly more expensive per foot. Choosing standard indoor-rated cables with moderate fiber counts is usually sufficient for most computer roo...
