

Self-supporting butterfly optical cable company

AI Overview

Key global manufacturers of self-supporting butterfly optical cables include Abalone Tech, Fiberinthebox, Fiberstore, Fiber Optic Telecom, Hengtong Optic-Electric, Fiber Cable Solution Technology, Shenzhen KSD Cable, Lambei Information Technology, and FiberHome Telecommunication Technologies. Overview of the Market Self-supporting butterfly optical cables are designed for mechanical robustness, compactness, and simplified installation, making them ideal for aerial deployment without separate messenger wires. They are widely used in telecommunications, 5G backhaul, smart grids, broadband access, and renewable energy projects due to their dual functionality of mechanical support and high-speed data transmission. The global market is projected to grow significantly, with estimates suggesting a market size of USD 1.25 billion in 2024, expected to reach USD 2.75 billion by 2033, driven by increasing fiber optic infrastructure investments and digital transformation.
