

Site price of small three-level distribution box

AI Overview

Small three-level distribution boxes typically range from $30 to $200 per unit, depending on specifications, materials, and installation type.

Price Range and Factors

The cost of a small 3-way distribution box varies based on several factors:

- Material and Durability: Indoor boxes made of standard plastic or metal are generally cheaper ($30–$80), while weather-resistant or heavy-duty metal boxes for outdoor or industrial use can cost $100–$200 or more.
- Amperage and Voltage Capacity: Boxes designed for higher current loads or three-phase systems are priced higher due to enhanced internal components and safety features.
- Installation Type: Wall-mounted units are usually less expensive than free-standing or floor-mounted models, which offer more flexibility and robustness.
- Certifications and Safety Features: Units with IP ratings, NEMA classifications, or integrated circuit breakers and overload protection may carry premium pricing.
- Customization: OEM branding, modular configurations, or specialized busbar layouts can increase the cost, especially for bulk or commercial orders.

Typical Applications

Small 3-way distribution boxes are commonly used for:

- Residential homes to manage multiple circuits efficiently.
- Small commercial offices or retail spaces.
- Light industrial setups where three separate circuits need controlled distribution.
